

THE HERALD.

CHEROKEE SUTTON,
J. S. GLENN,
WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 30, 1882.

THE Grayson county Circuit Court is in session.

HERBERT SPENCER, the English scientist and author, is on a visit to United States. Mr. Spencer has come to this country for his health, hoping that our climate will benefit him.

JUDGE HALLS, of Warren county, was nominated for Congress in the Third District last week on the first ballot. He is a man well worthy of the distinction conferred upon him and will make a good representative if he can beat Geoffrey Hunter.

THE tariff commission will be in session in Louisville September 6th, and an opportunity will be given to all who have complaints against the present tariff to lay their complaints before the commission. Louisville should see that a full and fair presentation of the question is made, although little good is to be expected to come out of it all, still such a thing might be.

GENERAL ABE CRADDOCK proposes to make it hot for Bradford of the Paris Republic. Craddock sent a report to his paper that Buford, who is one of Barnes' converts, had called a boy, who charged him a quarter for holding his duster, a "damned scoundrel." Buford says it is a lie, that he only said "damn it" in a sort of off-hand, promiscuous kind of way without any particular reference. This way of interfering with a man's liberty of speech, even if he is a christian, is something we call upon the press of the whole country to quash.

HON. J. A. McKENZIE, of the Second District, has been forced to withdraw from the canvass for Congress on account of failure of his eyesight. The sympathy for his misfortune is universal and none more than the people of this county on whom he had a very deep hold. The race is now between Clay, of Henderson, and Pettit of Owensboro with the chances in favor of the latter. Hon. I. A. Spalding, of Union county, is a possibility and may announce himself. If he does not it is rumored that there is a chance for him to come in as a dark horse at the convention. Any one of the three would make an excellent Congressman and a worthy colleague for Ohio county's candidate.

TENNESSEE is having a triangular race for Governor. Russell, the bolter, is the candidate of the so-called "State Credit" Democrats; Hawkins, Republican candidate and late regular Democratic nominee. The fight is made against Bate by both the other parties and it looks like an effort was being made to turn the State over to the Republicans by taking advantage of the split in the Democratic party. Russell has no hope of election and what interest his candidacy can subserve is hard to tell unless it is a conspiracy to betray his party. The cry of "State credit" and "State honor" by either is all both as both are reputations only differing in the amount—the Republicans and "State credit" Democrats holding for a settlement of the State debt at 60-65 while the regular Democrats hold for 50-55. The regulars have the virtue (if it can be called such) of having the side of the question which the people in convention have approved which alone they say they are able and willing to pay. The canvass is lively and exciting with Bate in the lead.

VERILY the way of the transgressor is hard but the hardest of all is the way of the political transgressor, who provokes the anger of his political bosses. A few weeks ago Governor Cornell, of New York, was having a walk-over in a race for re-election, now he stands before the country in the attitude of a swindler, having used the influence of his office to advance the price of stock in a worthless telegraph company and then selling out and pocketing the difference and leaving his friends in the lurch. This is a representative of the "God and Morality party." The Governor shows up rather badly. Ex-Senator, Conkling, is jubilant, as he hates the Governor with a lively, active hate, because he did not assist Conkling in his effort to be returned as Senator after his suicidal resignation and, lastly, for refusing to permit several hundred thousand dollars of back taxes due from the elevated railway of which Conkling is the Attorney. All this shows about the Governor's condition of affair in the Republican camp of New York as existed in the palmy days of "Boss" Tweed. Cornell is shown as a man who is no longer as he is tried to be by the Governor to carry his purpose. The division is irreconcilable and the Democrats have a fine opportunity of carrying the State as there seem to be a prospect of harmony among the different factions of the State Democracy. It is reported that the Tammanyites will send a full delegation to the State Convention and will be given their strength in that body.

An Honest Opinion.
The New York Herald's Washington correspondent, looking over the still smoking field where Congress has been camping, says:
"It is a fashion to sneer at the Democrats, and no doubt they were clumsy and without tact when they controlled the House, and managed to get themselves into hot water with the country on trivial matters, but from the time they took command in the House until they lost it again there was no lobby here, and they were careful of the people's money as if it had been their own. They cut too close some times, as was not unnatural, for they succeeded a Republican House which had been equally and shamefully extravagant, as this one has also been, but they performed the disagreeable task of economizing with the most honorable fidelity to the people, whose money Congress spends." This, from an independent journal, unbiased by political preferences, is a noble tribute to the Democratic party while it was in possession of power and furnishes a telling contrast to the manner in which legislation has been managed and money lavishly expended by the Republicans. The Republican party has over-lived its day of usefulness.

The Navy.

There is a great deal of unnecessary complaint about the navy department of the United States, and a great deal of "fun" being poked at it which is entirely uncalled for. The navy may be defective so far as number, equipment and size of war vessels are concerned as compared with countries whose geographical and political relations necessitate a navy, kept on a war footing, but late wars have shown that a fleet of vessels is not the most effective and cheapest means of providing a defense to the sea-coast of a country.

We are not a nation that proposes to carry on wars of conquest, and only seek to prepare before hand the means of guarding our territory against any possibility of invasion by a foreign power, and to keep up a large navy for the protection of the coasts with its enormous attendant expense, when other and better means of defense are at hand, is to say the least of it, unwise.

The late developments in the management of torpedoes and torpedo boats will cause as complete a revolution in the method of coast and harbor defenses as the peculiar construction of the Monitor did in the build of war vessels. All the nations of all countries that have not already done so, will soon be protected by a system of torpedoes so arranged as to be fired off at the will of the directors on land, against which the finest iron-clad vessel on the waters is powerless. When once the torpedo of a nation has been stocked with torpedoes, the danger of an attack by water is reduced to almost nothing, for what commander will risk an iron-clad which cost millions to the danger of being destroyed by a torpedo.

This is shown in the French and Prussian war, for the French did not dare to molest the Prussian waters because of their being stocked with torpedoes; and again in the war between Turkey and Russia, the Turkish fleet, it is said, did not venture to approach the Russian harbor.

The United States Government has adopted a system of torpedo defense which is very comprehensive and effective, and we have every right to expect the same results in this country from their use as has attended them in the countries mentioned.

In addition to the torpedoes used for port defenses, and which are all connected by electric wires, and terminate in a central office from whence they are manipulated, there are others which are launched and sent against invading vessels; these, for the distance of a mile and a half, can be made to stop, turn, sink and rise at the will of the operator, and when they strike a vessel they explode with terrific force tearing it to pieces.

With these means of defense the Government is under no necessity of constructing a large fleet of costly war vessels; for harbors can be protected with torpedoes, so that no hostile vessel can enter, and a blockading fleet can be dispersed by a few merchant steamers carrying three or four of the launches to be sent against the fleet from seaward. Now to spend hundreds of millions of dollars in fitting up a lot of iron-clad vessels to float around and rot without doing a bit of good in the way of protection is absurd. Let those organs that are howling about a strong navy ease up a little, and if the surplus taxes have to be squandered, let it be on river improvements where it will do some good to a portion of the people at least. The navy of the future will be constructed with especial reference to these things.

What They Say About the Change.

Mr. John P. Barrett has sold the Hartford Herald to Messrs. C. T. Sutton and J. S. Glenn, of this town. The readers of the HERALD may rest assured that the present editors will give them an interesting, new and well edited paper.—Hopedale News.

Mr. John P. Barrett, of the Hartford Herald, has sold the HERALD to Messrs. Glenn and Sutton, and has retired from journalism on account of ill health. Mr. Barrett's newspaper friends will read his farewell in the last HERALD with regret, for he had their friendship and esteem. We hope his health will be speedily restored, and that he may find his way back into the fold again. He made the HERALD one of the best weeklies in the State.—Princeton Banner.

Owing to ill health that very accomplished editor, Mr. J. P. Barrett has been forced to sell the Hartford Herald. The purchasers are Messrs. C. T. Sutton and J. S. Glenn, whom he highly recommends as gentlemen and scholars. Mr. C. H. Mathis, who has successfully edited the Spencer Courier, has also sold out. Mr. L. L. Russell, becoming the editor and proprietor. We extend to the new owners the right hand of fellowship.—Interior Journal.

John P. Barrett, of the Hartford Herald, has been compelled by ill health to retire from journalism, and has sold out to C. T. Sutton and J. S. Glenn, who will in the future conduct the paper under the firm name Sutton & Glenn. Mr. Barrett was a spicy and forcible writer and a successful newspaperman. We hope his mantle may fall upon the shoulders of his successors.—Herald Enterprise.

We regret to note that Mr. John P. Barrett has retired from the management of the Hartford Herald. He is a pointed and fearless writer, and while we have occasion to differ with him we have admired his manliness and sincerity. We trust his life will be cast in pleasant places. His successors are live young men, and judging from their first number, fully equal to keep the HERALD up to its present standard of excellence.—Elizabethton News.

John P. Barrett has sold his interest in the Hartford Herald to Messrs. Sutton & Glenn. The HERALD is a good newsy paper, barring an occasional political crankiness. We hope, however, the recent election has permanently cured it of that foolish malady, and that it will stiffen up its spinal column and hereafter do good and noble work in the cause of Democracy. While we regret to lose Mr. Barrett from the fold of journalism, we welcome his successors and wish them success commensurate with their merit.—Muhlenberg Echo.

C. T. Sutton and J. S. Glenn have purchased the interest of John P. Barrett in the Hartford Herald and will conduct that sheet. Mr. Sutton has heretofore been associated with Mr. Barrett in the editorial and business management of the HERALD. Mr. Glenn is a man of fine education, having heretofore held the position of Professor of Ancient Languages in Hartford College. Under its present control the HERALD can hardly fail to continue, as it has been under its past management, one of the best country papers in the State.—Hopedale Gazette.

We regret the retirement of John P. Barrett from the Hartford Herald. He has been an industrious and faithful worker, and the builder-up of a solid and influential paper. Fortunately the HERALD is left in good hands. Cicero Sutton, though young in the harness, has already given evidence of the possession of remarkably fine journalistic talent. Prof. Glenn, his associate, is a stranger to us, but we hear him spoken of as a gentleman of high cultivation and fine intelligence.—Brookeshire News.

Last week we chronicled the loss of Marks, of the Danville Advocate, from the Kentucky Press Gang; now we learn that John P. Barrett, of the Hartford Herald, has sold out to Sutton & Glenn and retired from the editorial ranks, after eight years service. We regret their loss but wish them success in whatever vocation they may hereafter pursue.—Hudsonian News.

The Electoral Vote.

There have been several changes in the electoral vote of the country effected by the last census. Instead of 369 votes for President we now have 411. The sixteen Southern States have 153 votes.

Some Political Hash.

It is now regarded in political circles, as certain that the Democrats will elect a majority of Congressmen this fall and as a result the Congress will be Democratic for the next two years, at least. Hon. John G. Carlisle, of this State, will probably be elected Speaker of the House. We rejoice at first view of this possibility in politics but we tremble for fear they will make some blunder or other that will turn the country again to the Republicans in 1884. The fact of the business is that we have much to fear to the country and to Democracy from this very prospect of Democratic victory and we might add further, that it looks in the light of the past, to a disinterested spectator, like neither party is capable of taking care of the country. The Republican party has shown its ability to take care of itself but has let the country go to the dogs while the Democratic party has not as yet proven to anybody that it can keep itself out of the mire. What then does it do with an additional burden? It would have to mend its leaks or go under and take everything else with it. This may sound like strange talk for a Democrat but it is a hard fact and facts must be recognized if everything else goes by the board. It is hard to judge which is worst for a party, Republican criminality or Democratic stupidity. What the Republican party needs is reformation so absolute that none of the original substance shall remain when the process is completed, and what the Democrats need is an infusion of brains into the leaders and others responsible for the safe conduct of the party. The individual members of the party are brainy enough—some too much so—and that is partially what is the matter with Hannibal. We want brains but they have been, up to this time, rather scattered. We want, as it were, a perfect pooling of cerebral matter from every source. We must unite and consolidate our views. With the party in one State arrayed against the party in another State, what can we expect to do in a national contest? Nothing but defeat and that we always get. If we cannot get up a national issue on which all can unite, let us disband. This looks like a hopeless extremity, but it is better to surrender than to be cut down one man at a time and a thousand in a day. To bring about this result is well-nigh impossible and if the party organization were thrown on this question its existence would be at an end. If we make the tariff the issue of the coming campaign we hopelessly divide the East from the West, if we make antimongrel principles a part (as they should be) of our platform we have the capitalists of the East and North to fight and there it is again. About the best thing that can be done is to divide the country up into sections regarding these great questions and let the results be what they will. The Republicans are equally as much divided as we are, but the spoils of office hold them together. This tie the Democrats know nothing of, most of the party having grown up since the accession of the Republicans to power. They will learn it by and by.

The agricultural Republican West will want a low tariff or free trade, while the partially Democratic North and East will favor protection and to this complexion it will come at last that the supremacy of power will not rest with either party but with one of the two great sections. If the Democrats will only see this and put in a lively bid, and put it in earnest, for the aid and comfort of the low-tariff men of all sections they will sweep everything two years hence as a strict vote. The low-tariff men of both parties, we are united, would have a majority that could not be overcome. We should put our foot down flat for something now, as we have been debating between milk and cider long enough.

Echoes from Livermore.

So much has transpired since my last report that I will mention the most important.

Warm days and cool nights herald the close proximity of autumn.

The Livermore straggling band paraded main street from Quigg Bros' grocery to the railroad depot and took passage to Portland creek, where they will assist the bulldozers in their evening hymns, &c., &c.

W. T. Geary went to Owensboro Monday.

Our town council, Messrs. W. H. Hillman, D. J. Tucker, C. F. Gilliam and A. G. Driskel, sat on the lock-up question Monday.

Mr. W. E. Lashbrook's yard has been adorned by a wire fence.

A lively row in town Sunday last and all about a dog.

Mr. S. L. Berry is a sticky man. He has stuck to the railroad bridge ten years and the work is not easy, either.

George Priest still improves. He will be a farmer, but he is going to raise stock hereafter. Why do not all the large farmers go to raising stock and give the small farmers and the poor men who are forced to raise tobacco a show?

Miss Ada Coleman, who has been visiting here for the past week, returned home last Saturday. Many friends regret her departure.

Samuel Maddox, of McHenry, was in this vicinity last Sunday. While going home that night his horse became frightened at a cow lying in the road, and threw him astraddle of the horse. The cow in turn became frightened and ran two hundred yards before Sam could get off. He finally alighted right side up with no damages. He says this is all true—every word of it.

Spring Lick.

Crops are good. I think we will have better times.

Mr. Joseph Arnold and wife, of Owensboro, are visiting their daughter, Mrs. J. Edwards.

Rev. M. P. Remington, Ithaca, N.Y., writes: "From too close application to my calling, my health underwent a severe strain. I felt a weakness in every part of my body. My digestion especially failed me, and my nerves became all unstrung. Recreation did not do me proper benefit. Finally, on the recommendation of a brother minister, I tried Brown's Iron Bitters. It has made me feel better and stronger than I ever before felt since I was a young man."

—A gentleman who does not desire his name to be known, but who is a very ardent friend of the HERALD, will give the young lady who will get us up a club of ten subscribers a solid gold ring, either plain or with set, to be of any kind selected by the young lady herself, not to exceed ten dollars in value. An extensive catalogue will be furnished to select from. If more than one young lady gets up a club of ten, the ring will of course go to the largest club. The gentleman is not in any way connected with the paper, and is married. What young lady will get the ring?

—Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro. sell all one dollar Patent Medicines at 85 cents per bottle cash, and everything else in the drug line in proportion. Save your money by buying where you can buy cheapest.

—We are of the opinion that about the most interesting article in the paper this morning is the announcement of our drawing. It has been in everybody's mouth for months, and every one has been on tiptoe with expectation. Here it is at last. The late owners of the HERALD intended to have the drawing some time ago, but owing to adverse circumstances and the ill health and misfortune of the senior partner, their hopes were blasted. It now remains for us to enlarge and carry out their plans. How we shall do this, this paper will tell you. Read every thing carefully and resolve to help us, and to try to help yourself by renewing or subscribing for the paper.

KALAMAZOO, MICH., Feb. 2, '82.
I know Hop Bitters will bear recommendation honestly. All who use them confer upon them the highest encomiums, and give them credit for making cures—all the proprietors claim for them. I have kept them since they were first offered to the public. They took high rank from the first, and maintained it, and are more called for than all others combined. So long as they keep their high reputation for purity and usefulness, I shall continue to recommend them—something I have never before done with any other patent medicine.

J. J. BARCOCK, M. D.
—Summer is the season of the year above all others when the system is liable to get out of order and severe and dangerous bilious attacks frequently follow. The principal cause of nearly all sickness at this time of the year has its origin in a disordered Liver, the largest organ in the body, which if not regulated in time, great suffering, wretchedness and DEATH will ensue. A little precaution taken in time in the shape of a reliable and efficacious Liver Regulator will in most cases prevent illness and fatal consequences. No medicine in modern times has gained a wider reputation than Simmons' Liver Regulator, manufactured by J. H. ZEILIN & CO. This justly celebrated medicine regulates the Liver, promotes digestion and fortifies the system against malarial diseases.

—The Building Committee of the Hartford Baptist church have received from C. A. Curtin, architect, corner Main and Bullitt streets, Louisville, Ky., a full and complete plan of the Baptist church to be built at this place. Judging from the accuracy and skill displayed in the drawings, we regard Mr. Curtin as a No. 1 architect. His liberality in the matter is worthy of commendation, having drawn the plans and presented them to the church as his donation in aid of the enterprise. We cheerfully commend him to all persons in need of a skilled and reliable architect.

—The nicest and cheapest line of cigars and coffees in Hartford at the Red Front.

—Mack Murrell, son of Mr. E. R. Murrell, of Owensboro, is quite sick with typhoid fever. He is thought to be improving.

—The dedication of the Baptist church in Cloverport will take place the first Sunday in September. Dr. J. S. Coleman will officiate.

—We learn that the Englishman visiting the Sulphur Springs from our mother country has a kind regard for the "damned dunkey."

—Anderson's Bazaar has had two men east for several weeks buying goods for the fall trade. The Bazaar must have room for this stock and will give great bargains in everything to reduce the present stock. Call at once.

—P. B. Moreland, Esq., of Barnett's creek neighborhood, has raised and sold over $50 worth of fine watermelons. He has three acres and thinks the crop will net him $150. This is quite a large profit, as melons, when they can be raised at all, are no more trouble than any other crop. The gentleman also has four acres of late and three acres of early potatoes which are very fine.

—The Greenville Echo gives an account of the attempted robbery of Esq. D. B. Roll near Paradise. Mr. Roll had received the bill of lading for a large amount of wheat, and the crowd at the post-office thought he had received a considerable sum of money. As he was riding home rather late at night, a man sprang out from the roadside and attempted to knock Mr. Roll from his horse with a club. A large bull dog following the Squire attacked the would-be robber, and while the contest between the dog and man was raging, the Squire hastily fled. This is the second attempt to rob Mr. Roll in the last year or two. We would advise him to carry a "bull dog" of a different kind in the future. No clue as to who the robber was.

—Mrs. T. P. Monroe, of Hernando, Miss., will take charge of the Art Department of Hartford College the ensuing year. Mrs. Monroe is recommended as a lady of superior culture, and excellent attainments in her department.

—Mr. J. C. Wilson is opening up a family grocery store on Market street next door to Kimbley's drug store. Mr. Wilson will meet all the requirements of customers and we predict a first-class business for him.

—The Master of the State Grange wants the address of the Masters of dormant Granges in this and adjoining counties. Address, JAMES L. NEAL, HARRISBURG, Kentucky.

—E. L. Sullenger would like to feed your horse for you when you come to town. He is at the Crow stable, where he will be glad to see all his old friends. Commercial men carried anywhere. Horses and buggies for hire at all times.

—Master Hugh Tracy has constructed a bath from old sewing machine wheels and other odds and ends, and is turning out some very artistic work in his line. He will soon be a first class cabinet workman.

—Anderson's Bazaar has done the farmers a great favor in taking all their surplus produce. The Bazaar has a surplus of its own to dispose of in the way of all kinds of goods which will be sold away down.

—"It don't take a man as rich as Croesus to do to Mr. Rowe's store and lay a big lot of goods," said Mrs. Smith. "The indulgent can afford a heap for a little money." She probably meant Croesus. Her other words we don't know anything about.

—Dr. J. W. Meador, of Pottsville, will remove to Hartford in two or three weeks to practice in his profession. We have known the Doctor for years as a skillful physician and no more polished or pleasant gentleman lives than he. We welcome him to our town.

—The revival at Beda is still going on and the excitement is at fever heat. Numbers have plucked fruit from the tree of eternal life and many are reaching for it but have as yet been able to gather only leaves. By and by as they grow taller in grace they will gather it in plenty.

—Democrats, remember the precinct conventions meet Saturday to select delegates to the county convention to be held at Hartford Monday, Sept. 4th, to select delegates to the Elizabethtown Congressional Convention, which meets Sept. 13th. The precinct vote will be on the basis of one delegate for every twenty-five and fraction over twelve Democratic votes cast. Let every Democrat turn out.

—Read the premium list and explanation of the manner of drawing which you will find elsewhere. The list is a most liberal one and cannot fail to please all concerned. We will promise however, if receipts are liberal enough that we will make out a supplemental list containing articles of use and value, and present it on or before the day of the drawing. Of course our friends must help us or we will even lose money on what we have already given. We retain the right to enlarge but not to decrease our list.

—We hope our friends everywhere will come to our help at once with the amounts they owe us, or if they do not owe us, with a year's subscription. The large premium list has cost us every cent it calls for and more besides as in some instances we have had to pay freight on the articles. We cannot afford to be liberal with you unless you are liberal with us, and we only ask you for a very small amount while we are giving away a large sum. Come and help us and we will not only treat you right in money matters, but will give you a better paper than you have ever had before.

—The Building Committee of the Hartford Baptist church have received from C. A. Curtin, architect, corner Main and Bullitt streets, Louisville, Ky., a full and complete plan of the Baptist church to be built at this place. Judging from the accuracy and skill displayed in the drawings, we regard Mr. Curtin as a No. 1 architect. His liberality in the matter is worthy of commendation, having drawn the plans and presented them to the church as his donation in aid of the enterprise. We cheerfully commend him to all persons in need of a skilled and reliable architect.

—We already have a circulation rarely reached by a country paper and we are desirous of doubling it before the close of the year. That desire has induced us to make the exceedingly liberal gift of over $570 to subscribers to our paper and we now have this offer to make: We will give a premium of $10 in gold to the person who will get us the largest club of subscribers before November 25th, 1882. To the person securing the second largest list $5 in gold, both prizes to be paid on the day of the drawing. We make this promise, however: The club that gets the $10 must contain, at least, fifteen names and the offer of $5 holds good for no number less than eight names, and all, for both premiums, must be paid in cash for the year from date of subscription. In addition to the $10 and $5 offers we will give $15 to any person who will get up a club of thirty names, or over, to be paid in same manner and at the same time as the other premiums. Thus, you see, you have a chance to make $25 with a very little work. By getting up a club of thirty names or over you may get the $10 for the largest club and also the $15 for the largest club of thirty names or over. All subscribers sent in must be new ones or those who have not taken the paper since July 1st, 1882. All sent in under this arrangement will be notified November 25th. Try your hand and see if you can't make $25. You needn't send in all the names at once. Send them one, two, five or ten as you can get them. Always register money for clubs and charge us for postage if the amount sent is $4.50 or over. If you are not a subscriber and don't want to get up a club please hand $1.50 to some one who does and help them and us.

—We are authorized by Mr. Fogle who presided over the meeting, the proceedings of which are published above, to say that the paragraph of said proceedings that declared in favor of placing a man at the head of the Collegiate department of Hartford College, who is capable and willing to run it on his own merit.

—We are unanimously opposed to the present high and oppressive tax that is being levied upon us for the maintenance of the high school, and forever opposed to the unfair favoritism and self-interest that has been manifested by the high tax party, (with a few exceptions) from beginning to end.

At the meeting adjourned to August 25th, 1882, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted: WHEREAS, It has been falsely charged that the citizens of Hartford who are opposed to the present high and oppressive tax for school purposes, are in favor of mixed schools. Now be it resolved, While we are opposed to mixed schools, as being objectionable (as we believe) to both races, still we are in favor of extending such educational facilities to colored children as justice and equity they are entitled to, and are in favor of assisting to build a school house for them and in rendering them such other aid as is just and right.

A Proposal.

August 28th, 1882.

Young Ladies: You all appreciate the HERALD, and I want to see how much work you will do in an emergency. I will give a gold ring, either plain or with a set, to be worth not more or less than $10, to be selected by the young lady herself, from a catalogue which the editors will furnish, to any young lady getting up a club of ten names with $15 for the HERALD. If more than ten names are procured, the ring goes to the largest club. The HERALD is your home paper and I would like to have you make it a success. Let the editors hear from you. You will never know my name, but I will know who has won my little gift. BENEVOLENT.

Public Meeting.

At a meeting of voters and tax-payers of the town of Hartford, held on the 22nd day of August, 1882, in which all the political parties were represented, the following named gentlemen were nominated and unanimously chosen as a suitable ticket to be voted for, for a Board of Trustees for said town the ensuing year, viz: Jesse E. Fogle, R. P. Rowe, Dr. S. L. Berry, J. M. Klein, D. L. Smith, G. J. Bean, and E. P. Thomas.

And thereupon the following preamble and resolutions were enthusiastically adopted: WHEREAS, It has been and is still being circulated that the anti-school tax party in Hartford, is opposed to paying off the school bonds, and that they also want to break up the school.

Resolved, That neither of said charges bears any semblance of truth. 1. We are in favor of paying the last funding of the school bond.

2. We are in favor of a good free school.

3. We are in favor of placing a man at the head of the Collegiate department of Hartford College, who is capable and willing to run it on his own merit.

4. We are unanimously opposed to the present high and oppressive tax that is being levied upon us for the maintenance of the high school, and forever opposed to the unfair favoritism and self-interest that has been manifested by the high tax party, (with a few exceptions) from beginning to end.

At the meeting adjourned to August 25th, 1882, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted: WHEREAS, It has been falsely charged that the citizens of Hartford who are opposed to the present high and oppressive tax for school purposes, are in favor of mixed schools. staid in town two days, drinking a good deal of whisky, and having quite a good time. He left for home on Tuesday and on Wednesday evening we saw him in Owensboro. He had gone that far towards Meade county. Thursday he started on his rounds and went into a law office where he was recognized. The gentlemen present were informed that he had victimized Hartford, and a general account given of his rascality. He sat and took it, but his crimsoned face showed too plainly that his deafness was as great a fraud as himself. His career was blighted by the report which was soon circulated in advance of him, and he left early for other fields. People should never give a cent to traveling beggars or any other kind unless the merits of their case are known.

Arabi Pasha and the James Boys.

If Arabi Pasha had a regiment or two of such dare-devils and expert pistol shots as the James boys and the Younger Brothers were, he could make things very warm for John Bull. The noted American highwaymen could have swept through a British regiment with the bridle reins in their mouths and a pistol in each hand, and moved a swath like a cyclone. America beats the world in everything, not excepting outlawry. Claude Duval, Dick Turpin and other ancient worthies of the highway could not hold a candle to our own Younger and James Brothers. The Historical Publishing Co., of St. Louis, has published a history of these renowned bandits, under the title of "Border Outlaws," advertised elsewhere in this paper.

Prohibition.

The national convention of prohibitionists has just laid down its platform. The second resolution demands the abolition of taxes on intoxicating liquors of all kinds. There will be, if this should be carried into effect, no more stamps of ninety cents per gallon; no retailers and compounders; no wholesale or retail dealers' "special tax" to the United States, and no dealers' license to State, county, city or town. Lately the enemies of the liquor trade passed the so-called "Pond law" through the Ohio Legislature, which imposed an excise duty of $300 and over all the retail dealers. All of them, and all the brewers and distillers at once united in firm and fiery opposition to the law, and succeeded in obtaining from the Supreme Court of the State a decision that it was unconstitutional because, under the constitution of Ohio, the "liquor trade cannot be licensed." In short, the dream of the prohibitionists has been fully realized in Ohio. But if you go to Cincinnati "over the Rhine," or up or down Vine street, or out to the hill-tops, you would hardly believe yourself in a temperance paradise. Perhaps the sale of liquors is unlawful in Ohio, but not one drop less is sold or drunk for that.—Louisville Post.

Every old subscriber who has renewed or may renew for the year 1882, and every new subscriber who subscribes and pays for one year before Nov. 1st, 1882, will be entitled to a ticket or a chance in the distribution of the premiums in the above list in the drawing which will take place at 1 o'clock Saturday, Nov. 25, 1882, at the Court House in Hartford, Kentucky. The drawing will be superintended by a committee of three prominent citizens of the county, and will be conducted with the utmost fairness.

The manner of the distribution will be this: The publishers of the HERALD will take the subscription book and go over it name by name and make a record of the name of every subscriber who is entitled to a ticket. The first on the book who is entitled to a ticket will get ticket No. 1, the second ticket No. 2, the third ticket No. 3, and so on to the end. After the book is gone over the list will be closed preparatory to the final drawing. Each man's name will be registered on a book kept for that purpose and the number of his ticket placed opposite his name. At the drawing all the tickets will be placed in a box or wheel and well shaken up. A little child, under seven years of age, will then put its hand in the box through an opening made for the purpose and draw out a ticket. This ticket will contain nothing but the number of the holder, and will draw the subscription to the Commercial. The box will then be shaken up and a second ticket drawn in like manner. The man who has the lucky number that appears on this ticket will receive the HERALD one year from the expiration of his subscription free of charge, and so on till all the prizes are drawn. The reader will readily see that one ticket is as liable to be drawn from the wheel first as another, and all will bear in mind that it is the first ticket drawn from the wheel, and not ticket No. 1 or any particular number that draws the first prize. Ticket No. 1 or No. 500 may draw the gold watch, and they may draw nothing. No one, not even ourselves, can know anything about it until the drawing has occurred. The result of the drawing will be made known at the close of the drawing; if not present we shall hold them subject to their order by mail or otherwise.

This, we believe, is a fair presentation of the whole matter, and we believe we have succeeded in making it so plain that all can understand it. Remember that the drawing will take place on the day set, that the full number and amount of prizes will be drawn as set forth above, and that everybody will be treated fairly, whether present or not. We leave the matter with you.

Humbugged Again.

I saw so much said about the merits of Hop Bitters, and my wife who was always doctoring, and never well, teased me so urgently to get her some, I concluded to be humbugged again—and I am glad I did, for in less than two months' use of the Bitters my wife was cured, and she has remained so for eighteen months since. I like such humbugging.—H. T., St. Paul.—Pro necer.
